

The Department of Agriculture's - Agriculture in the Classroom program and Chief Veterinary Officer have developed a short training program on biosecurity and handling procedures for teachers planning a chick hatch in their classroom.

All teachers who are planning a classroom hatch, of any bird species, must register via this online portal to receive the biosecurity training information and to be notified of changes in the HPAI risk level.

Please sign up here - Agriculture in the Classroom Dashboard

And look for this tab

Chick hatching - REGISTER ONLY IF CLASS HAS OWN INCUBATOR & EGGS

Any classrooms or schools who hatch any chicks, ducks or quail in their classroom using their own incubators and eggs should register here each year.

Apply Now!

Teachers must register EACH year a hatch is planned.

If you have any questions or concerns, please contact the Agriculture in the Classroom team at <mailto:ag.education@novascotia.ca>